Copyright

You may make a single print or digital copy of anything in copyright for:

- Research
- Instruction or teaching
- Quoting from a work

The amount you copy must be “fair and justifiable”:

5%? One article per issue?

You must not reproduce the copy, sell it, or share it online

You must acknowledge the source where reasonable practical

Copyright

- Copies supplied under the NHS CLA Licence

“This copy has been supplied to you under the terms of the CLA Licence for the NHS in England. You may store your own copy (e.g. on your personal drive or own PC), and make further copies for other NHS colleagues in England. You may store it on a secure NHS network, but not place it on the internet. Thank you for your co-operation.”

- Copies supplied under Library Privilege, a Publisher Licence, or obtained from the BL, BMA, RSM or another non-NHS library

“This copy has been supplied to you under the terms of the Copyright Act. It is for your personal, non-commercial use only. You may not make further copies. Thank you for your co-operation.”

- Checking full title, dates and publisher
- Searches grey literature and reports as well as journals
- Benefit from cookies
- Most journals provide a free abstract
- Many journals or institutions publish some free full text
- Authors may publish with ResearchGate or their university

Evidence-based practice: why is it important?

- Decision making is based on the best research evidence and effective practices
- Saves time re-inventing the wheel

What do we mean by evidence and evidence-based practice?

Five steps to evidence-based practice:

- Asking the right question
- Searching for the best sources of evidence
- Critical appraisal
- Applying best evidence into practice
- Evaluating and reflecting
